THE BEST PROOF.

Norway Citizens Cannot Doubt It.

Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they cured.

The story was told to Norway residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence. Has proven the cure permanent. The testimony is from this locality. The proof convincing.

If E. Monk, Pleasant St., South Paris, Maine, says, "About ten years ago I suffered from a lame back and pain across my kidneys. The kidney secretions were unnatural and I decided that my kidneys needed attention. Being told to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply and began their use. They did me so much good that I continued taking them and in a short time was free from my trouble." (Statement given July 25, 1908).

WORK THAT TELLS.

On July 20, 1911, Mr. Monk was interviewed and he said: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly today as I did three years ago when they cured me of kidney trouble. My kidneys have been in a normal condition ever since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and no other.

OTISFIELD.

At Otisfield Gore Grange hall on Thursday evening, Jan. 18, occurred the wedding reception of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Greenleaf. Promptly at 8 o'clock the wedding march, played by Charles Thurston, introduced the bride couple into the hall, led by Grange Master A. N. Rowe and wife, who introduced the couple to about 75

invited guests.

After the usual ceremony of extending congratulations a short musical by the groom's brothers with Mr. Morrell as accompanist on the piano, was enjoyed.

Messrs. Francis and Bartley Greenleaf sang a duet, the beautiful and popular song, "Silver Threads Among the Gold,"

in a very credible and impressive manner.

The program being ended the friends were conducted to the dining hall where coffee, sandwiches, cream pies and seven kinds of cake were served. The ten bride and groom sat at a table with a plate of fine red and yellow apples at each end and each mug holding a handsome souvenir napkin on which were written the names of the bride and groom, and date of reception, presented a very attractive appearance by the new lights

furnished for the occasion by the janitor.

The repeat over, games, music and dancing were indulged in until late.

Mr. Greenleaf is the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. John Burns of Oxford, a member of Oxford Grange since its organization, serving as an officer much of the time. Mr. Greenleaf is the secretary of Frederick Robie Grange. Below is a list of the March Term, 1912.

To the Honorable Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court next to be held at Paris within and for the county of Oxford on the second Tuesday of March, A. D. 1912.

Respectfully represents Angie Farrington of Hebron in said county of Oxford that she was lawfully married to Henry L. Farrington, whose residence is unknown to your libellant in February, A. D. 1908, at Hebron, Maine, by Way Eaton, a Justice of the Peace, that your libellant and the said Henry L. Farrington lived together as husband and wife at different places in the State of Maine until August

A. D. 1904, at which time the said Henry L.

Farrington utterly deserted your libellant, which desertion has continued for three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel, and the libellant avers that she has used reasonable diligence to ascertain the whereabouts of the said Henry L. Farrington and that she has been unable to do so. And the libellant further avers that said children were born to her and the said Henry L. Farrington, one of which are now minors, viz: Flossie Partridge and the other three, three weeks superior to the date of matrimony now existing. Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorces from the bonds of matrimony now existing between herself and the said Henry L.

Farrington may be decreed and that the care and custody of said minor children be given to her.

January 26, 1912. ANGIE FARRINGTON.

HOW TO PACK A HAND BAG.

Much Can Be Put In Small Space With Proper Care.

Packing well is a gift to the cultivated, and it is not difficult, though some women find it impossible, to learn how to do it. Just now the slim little garments make it possible for one to carry more in a small space than has ever been done before, and the girl on a holiday may, like her brother, go far afield with one bag and perhaps a little hand bag for necessities of the journey if it is to be a long one. One side of the holiday bag should be given up to frocks, blouses and scarfs. When there are no trimmings to crush there is nothing easier than to fold a dress into the smallest compass. Don't be afraid so long as the folds are in the right place and the material smooth. Any creases can easily be shaken out when the frock is unfolded.

In the second side of the bag should be placed wearing linen and boots. Books and stockings should be arranged around the edges. When the bag is a man's the boots should be placed with the heavier garments, as plenty of room must be left for shirts, collars and cuffs among the underclothing. When a trunk is being packed boots, books and boxes should be placed in the bottom, with stockings to fill up gaps. Underclothing should come next and dresses last of all. But must be remembered that the packing must be close and that where corners are left they must be filled up with twists of paper; otherwise things will tumble about and crush each other. The tighter the packing the better, especially if there are any breakable things about.

Any special gowns, such as those of silk or chiffon, should be folded with layers of silk paper between the folds, while paper is invaluable also in the hatbox. Ribbons, jabots, belts and handkerchiefs should all be placed in boxes, and a blouse box is much valued by the tidy girl.

HOW TO CARE FOR THE TEETH.

Powdered Pumice is Effective in Keeping Them White.

Powdered pumice is the best agent for keeping the teeth white, sound and free from disfiguring tartar.

When adding this certain aid to beauty to the list of toilet requisites it is well to remember that extreme caution must be exercised in using it. Applied oftener than once every two months it is liable to wear away the enamel, especially if the structure of the teeth is soft.

To gain the best effects the pumice should be applied with the aid of an orange wood stick with a piece of absorbent cotton wound around the sharpened end to prevent injury to the gums.

Mix the powder with a few drops of lemon juice or dip the improvised brush first in the lemon juice, then in the powder.

Take a position in front of a well lighted mirror and rub the teeth well with the pumice. This does not mean an application to the centers of the teeth alone, but to the sides, the back and especially the portions near the gums. Do not loosen the flesh from the teeth, however, as this will certainly result in diseased gums.

When each tooth has had its separate treatment of pumice rinse the mouth carefully, but do not brush the teeth at once. A diluted rinse of lime-water is excellent for this purpose, having a tendency to counteract the effects of the acid. Later, when every particle of pumice is removed, the cracks between the teeth should be cleansed with a soft brush.

Lime or soda water is a splendid preventive of yellow teeth, its value lying in its tendency to dissolve tartar accumulations. Soda water may be mixed as needed, the correct proportion being a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda (common baking soda) to a half glass of water.

How to Can Raspberries.
The sight of the nice looking, fresh raspberries in the markets recalls the following way of canning them, by which the flavor of the fresh fruit is most delightfully retained: Fill quart jars with raspberries that have been carefully looked over. To each quart add a cupful of granulated sugar and fill up the spaces around the fruit with water. Set the jars on a wooden rack in a large boiler containing water, and let them stand until the water has boiled for five minutes, then seal the jars. Preserved in this way the fruit is not as heavy and saccharine as when preserved in their juice with a larger quantity of sugar.

How to Make Pineapple Lemonade.
Peel a well ripened pineapple and grate or cut in thin slices. Mix with half a pound of sugar and the juice of four lemons. Let it stand for an hour, then mash and strain. Add water and a few pieces of pineapple. This makes the most acceptable drink on a hot day after it has been set on ice for an hour or two. It has a rich flavor.

How to Kill Moths.
Moths in carpets can be killed by the use of a damp cloth and a hot iron. Lay the cloth on the carpet and iron well, and the steam will destroy both eggs and worms. Brush up the nap of the carpet with a whisk broom as you finish ironing each section.

How to Put Out Burning Gasoline.
It has been proved that milk will effectively extinguish the flames from gasoline or any form of petroleum, since it forms an emulsion with the oil, whereas water only spreads it.

Alton O. Wheeler of South Paris is candidate for re-election to the legislature; also candidate for speaker of Maine House.

HOW TO BREW A CUP OF TEA.

Approved Methods of Serving Beverage in Charming Manner.

There is no function that possesses so subtle a charm, so imaginative a rite, as the single ceremony of brewing a cup of tea. It conjures up memories of things unforgettable—the austere abnegations of our forefathers, the social triumphs of peers and the homely pleasures of domestic joys. There is a cheerful glow, a coziness, a warmth that radiates from the tea table which melts all formality. Retiree lips bloom into speech, and diffident hearts become expansive.

The informality of gathering about the little table, expectantly watching the preparation of the tea and the steady glow of the tiny flame in the alcohol lamp and listening to the humming of the kettle, is very delightful in its simplicity, and this attractive means of entertaining is within the reach of every woman, no matter how simple her circumstances.

The tea table is a necessary adjunct to every bachelor maid's apartments, whether she be a wage earner or a woman of large social interests, and it becomes necessary from her labors, and what is more delightful than to have one's friends drop in during a leisure hour at sunset and be refreshed by the sympathetic understanding of kindred spirits.

Your friends soon grow to know that at a certain hour they will find a blessed respite, a charmed peace, at your fireside, and they will be only too glad to seek you, provided you have the love and instincts of a responsive hostess.

If a silver tea service is beyond your means, teakettle, caddy and service bowl of brass are just as effective and more decorative. A low taret, supporting a large, round, oriental tray of hammered brass, looks stunning beside an open fire, whose flickering flames reflect the beautiful lights from brass and copper.

I shall never forget upon entering a room the effect of a large brass bowl filled to overflowing with the rich hues of nasturtiums, burnished by the hot rays of the sun. It almost took my breath away, it was so riotous in color. Such a touch of the bizarre in a low toned room is most beautifully startling.

A muffin stand beside the tea table is a great convenience to the hostess, for the guests may help themselves without requiring the extra service of passing food from the hostess.

The three slices of different food—bread, butter, cream, and fruit—should be served in separate dishes. Simple bread and butter, cream and fruit sandwiches, little cakes and cookies or toasted muffins and crumpets are all appropriate and light enough to serve with tea.

Some women prefer using a Russian samovar, but one must be well versed in overcoming its difficulties and have had vast experience or the hostess will be ill at ease and so immersed in managing it that she will be able to pay but scant attention to the entertainment of her guests.

The simplest device for making tea, if there are but few cups required, is the use of the tea ball. The requisite for strong or weak tea which is characteristic of the individual can be easily regulated in this way.

Even in the summer the tea table need not fall into disuse. Iced tea, lemonade, grape juice and dozens of other cooling drinks may be easily prepared, and the portable table can be carried out of doors and placed either in the shadows of the lawn or in the more secluded privacy of the piazza—Chicago Inter Ocean.

An Accepted Apology.
There lives in Minneapolis a German printer who is well educated, but whose ignorance of the English language as it is spoken is great. On one occasion a reporter wrote a story for his newspaper, making fun of the German angry. The printer sought out the writer and expressed his wrath.

"Yes, I wrote that," said the reporter, "and I reiterate all I said."

"Well," commented the German smilingly, "I'm glad you 'pologize.'"—Popular Magazine.

Getting to Colorado.

BY MAXWELL.

We are now in a familiar condition, and mindful of the tourist booklet seek our porter with the object of making coffee on the stove said to be on board. That worthy, when found, stared at us with unforgotten wonder not unmixed with pity at our ignorance. Says he, "Why there are no stoves on these cars for use of tourists or anybody else."

When confronted with the printed evidence submitted to him he simply laughed. "These railroads," he continued, "are after your money. That is the first, sole and only object of railroad companies. They are not particular about how they word their advertisements so long as they keep well away from anything like veracity in their statements. They've got your money and that's what they're after. You just get to grin and bear it."

He was right. He was right and on the occasion alluded to and on several subsequent occasions. Toronto is reached about this time so we decide to purchase some coffee at the station restaurant.

A two-quart dish is found (the one we intended in our verandah to steep our tea and coffee in), taken to the dining-room, filled with coffee, no milk or sugar, and we return to the car exactly fifty cents poorer than when we left five minutes earlier.

By this time we are becoming well acquainted with our fellow passengers, finding most of them are bound for Pacific coast points, Los Angeles, California, having the lead in number of people on our car, seeking that noted resort.

One of these, an aged Irishwoman, becomes the center of interest immediately after the conductor passes through to examine tickets. As he takes her ticket and inquires her name he remarks, "Are you the woman about whom a long story was published in a Boston paper yesterday relating how she had been years of patient search you had found your lost son and are now on your way to join him?" Such indeed proved to be the case. When we got one of those human interest stories direct from the heart, they go to prove again the truth of the old saying that "Truth is stranger than fiction."

Picture, if you can, an old lady, thin and careworn, stooped with many, many weary days bent over a wash tub, face lined with the indelible marks caused by years of toil, years of anxiety, years of patient, unswerving purpose, of hope turned to despair, of defeat but never acknowledged, of final success when her aged footsteps are carrying her rapidly down the hillside that leads to the end of life's journey. Listen while she unfolds her story, told with a decided brogue, betraying also the illiteracy of the narrator. But the mother love is there and she eloquently enlists the interest of all her hearers as she talks.

In substance this is her story:—Married while yet quite young she has one child, a boy. When he is four years of age her health forces her to go to a hospital for treatment. After several weeks in this institution she learns upon leaving it that husband and child have disappeared completely. At first by inquiries she attempts to locate them without success. This woman, still young, finds herself deserted by her husband, whose offense against her is made the more heinous by the taking of her only child with him. Now the quest begins. From early morning until late at night, washing, scrubbing, cleaning, she labors for nothing but one purpose. As soon as a dollar is earned it goes to the newspaper office to pay for the advertisement for her lost son. East and west, north and south, she advertises. Papers in all sections of our great country and Canada carry at different times the little "ad" requesting information concerning the whereabouts of her boy.

There is no result. Finally she marries again, her second husband bringing her a little property. This is all expended in the endeavor. After a time he dies and then the old story begins again. Money procured from weary days of arduous labor is again expended for the same little "ad."

The years roll around, middle age by advancing inroads of time, the imprints that show plainly the near end of it all. But not for one instant does she relax her search. Hope springs eternal in her breast.

Finally an advertisement in a western paper brings her reward. In a Dakota town her son, principal of a high school, writes her that he has seen her advertisement and believes he is the son sought for. Letters are exchanged and doubt changes to certainty. He sends her the money and she is here now journeying to see the boy who thirty-five long years before she had lost.

We learned little of him from her, except as to his present position and standing in society. From the information we wondered what his reception would be of this ignorant old lady, hastening to meet him after years of separation.

Let us hope that the world has not made him like so many people we all know; that he will never feel ashamed of his aged mother and give her the place in his home and heart that she deserves during her brief existence upon the earth.

The journey west of Toronto is devoid of any particular interest until Sarnia is reached. It is here we pass under the St. Clair river through a tunnel two miles long and find ourselves in Uncle Sam's domain once more at Port Huron, Michigan. This tunnel, one of the great engineering accomplishments of the day, takes the place of the old ferry method of getting trains across the river. Electric locomotives are substituted for our engines, thus disposing of the smoke nuisance to travelers. The tunnel is lighted by electricity so that the usual discomforts of tunnel travel are considerably lessened. Incidentally there is a little chance of young men travelers making a mistake by kissing the wrong lady.

Michigan, we cross by evening, passing through Lansing, the capital, and Creek, home of breakfast cereals, and Flint, home of the Buick automobile, a favorite machine in Maine I believe.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Suffered Ten Years—Relieved in Three Months Thanks to P.E.R.U.N.A.

C. B. FIZER, Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I have suffered with kidney and bladder trouble for ten years past."

"Last March I commenced using Peruna and continued for three months. I have not used it since, nor have I felt a pain."

home of Postum." "Road to Wallville" occurred to our minds as well as "There's a Reason" so familiar to magazine and newspaper readers. However Mr. Post, himself, is not held up as a subject for any great homage when we recollect some incidents in his private life.

In due course of time we reach South Bend in the state of Indiana, one hundred miles from Chicago, two hours late. As we are due at the latter place at nine-thirty we begin to entertain lively apprehensions as to our immediate future as our train is due to leave over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy at eleven p. m. We just wonder if they'll wait or make up a special or just turn us loose in Chicago until the next night.

The latter supposition we use with sorrow. This is equally true of our fellow sufferers. As a result a committee is appointed who visit in turn the conductor, brakeman, porter and tourist conductor, all to no purpose. We are in the hands of destiny and only time will relieve our uncertainty.

A thick fog settles over the landscape, the train moves slower and slower, stops, starts, stops again, then starts, then stops. This performance, varied by frequent footings from one locomotive hooded by whistles from others in all directions, is kept up for the last twenty miles before we reach Chicago.

It is tiresome and wearing on the nerves. In a measure we obtain a little relief of mind from the most merciful papers when we read that there are several train wrecks in and near the city the night before owing to the fog. We congratulate ourselves upon escaping anything of that nature. Three hours late in Chicago. All tourist trains have departed upon schedule time. The conductor informs us we are at liberty to occupy our berths for the night but must vacate them before seven the next morning. Interesting for people who have had so far little or no rest upon the journey. The porter grudgingly makes up our berths and from one a. m. until six we sleep after a fashion.

The dawn of a new day finds us facing a lot of fifteen hundred people who are here with a renaissance as we are transferred to the union station almost immediately at our own request, learning later that the rest of our fellow passengers breakfast right royally at the expense of the railroad company.

If we have not progressed as far upon our westward journey as the reader would like, it is not our fault. So as this article already occupies a considerable space we will have to forego our experience in Chicago until a future time when another article will deal with this subject and a continuation of the trip.

RUMFORD.
Charles Taylor of Frye is in Dr. McCarty's hospital for an operation.

Prof. Frank J. Rigby and wife have returned home from their trip to California.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the excretion, it is yet afflicted with bedwetting, depending upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Quick Relief for Biliousness.

The sufferer from this distressing complaint is only too familiar with all its disturbing symptoms—loss of appetite, headache, dizziness, nausea and vomiting, oftentimes meaning prostration for two or three days and the consequent loss of time from regular duties. Such attacks vary in frequency and duration with different individuals, but there is really no occasion for them to occur at all. That old reliable household medicine "L. F." Atwood's Bitters, taken in teaspoonful doses, morning and night, rarely fails to wholly prevent an attack of sick headache or biliousness. If this preventive measure has not been adopted, a despondent when the first symptoms appear, will almost invariably ward off a severe attack. It may be obtained in large bottles, of any dealer, for thirty-five cents, or sample free for the asking. L. F. Medicine Co., Portland, Maine.

William Tell
Sponge cake, cup cakes, angel cake—all cakes that are not over-rich in butter and heavy icing are splendid foods for growing children.
